

Roy Robertson – Principal Director, CPI

Roy is the founder and principal director of Combined Private Investigations (CPI). He started his career as a police official in 1978 and he was the SAPS Unit Commander (addressing Cable theft from 1984-1997) in 1998 he joined Anglo American, Zambia who requested his expertise.

Eskom approached him during 2002 to address the market and Roy then founded CPI which is an Intelligence driven corporate investigations firm specializing in the investigation of non-ferrous metal theft specifically focusing on organized criminal syndicates targeting essential infrastructure networks including electricity supply, communication networks as well as transportation networks (rail and road).